

Hello Hiring Team,

I began my career as a UX designer, I have skills with experience with research, prototyping, and wireframing, I also have a creativity and curiosity that allow me to understand user needs. These skills make me confident that I can be a valuable asset to your team.

Over the last 3 years, I've honed my skills in web design, UI, and UX. In my current position, I've helped One5 Digital launch dozens of successful e-commerce sites. Most recently, I was key in the redeveloped One5 Digital website. Wireframing, interface design, and user research were essential skills I brought to those projects. I'm also well-versed in front-end development skills, including React JS, HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, making me an excellent collaborator with development teams on web projects. I use my skill set to look into what the customers want and need, and figure out how to make their experience better.

I am interested in working as a UX designer because I want to help companies create products that are easy and comfortable to use. I truly believe I'm an excellent match for the position. More specifically, as moves into the e-commerce space, I'm certain my expertise and leadership can help this transition succeed.

I'd love to speak with you about this opportunity and explore ways I can help firm grow in the area of UX. You'll find my resume attached as well as a link to my portfolio with case studies. Thanks for reading, and I look forward to speaking with you.

Best regards,

Srushti Patel
